Bruce has been enjoying photography for over fifty years. He is an Associate of the Photography Society of America and his award-winning photographs have been exhibited around the world.

His photographs have appeared in several magazines and calendars. His current interest is birding and trying to capture fine art images of the birds he sees.

In addition to this retirement “job,” Bruce enjoys helping son-in-law Gary at Staab Studios in Missouri. When there he also tends to his bees and tours Loess Bluffs National Wildlife Refuge.
